CORONER ASKS FOR ARREST OF FIVE IN MOB LYNCHING CASE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Collinsville, Ill., April 6.—The coroner of Madison county applied for warrants for the arrest of five men whom he had been informed were the mob which lynched Robert P. Drager early Friday morning. Four justices of the peace refused to issue warrants. The justices gave as reason they did not care to get mixed up in the case.

State to Take Charge.

Springfield, April 6.—When informed that four justices of the peace at Collinsville had refused to issue warrants for men supposed to have been members of the mob that lynched Robert Drager, Attorney General Edward J. Brundt today declared state authorities would take charge of the prosecution if local officials did not do their duty. He said it was not necessary for the state to have warrants issued by justice of the peace in order to make arrests.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

On the first anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the war the greatest battle is being waged on the field of Picardy. Their great attacks halted, the Germans are making strong but ineffectual efforts to break through the allied line or bend it back so as to gain Amiens and complete the first stage of the advance which began at St. Quentin.

General Foch, the commander in chief, declared the Boche tidal wave is broken. "All is going well," he adds, and expresses confidence in the future. As proof of his statement is the fact that in the past two days the enemy has made only slight gains on a 38-mile front and these have been checkmated by Franco-British advances at some points.

French Resistance.

French resistance broke the German storm Thursday south of the Somme and north of the river the British on Friday showed the same mettle before the assault. The sudden attack on the Somme may have been made to catch Field Marshal Haig napping, but it so far the attempt was futile and the Germans sustained heavy casualties.

Two Positions.

Dornacourt and Albert along the Aisne were the positions attacked most heavily while a strong assault was made at Mouyenville. 20 miles north of the Somme. The enemy succeeded only in gaining a footing in the foremost trenches at Dornacourt. Southwest of Albert a British counter attack drove the enemy from the front line position he had entered there.

Thrown Back.

At Mouyenville the enemy was thrown back with loss. Between this and Albert the Germans were unable to dislodge the British front line defense.

Southeast of Gommecourt the British launched an attack and captured 120 prisoners. In vigorous counter attacks, the French have driven the Germans from positions north of Montdidier. At Mailly-Maillet, where he made gains Tuesday, the enemy was driven back Thursday, the French at Caudry. The French attackers gained and held the northern and western outskirts of the town. On the Lassigny-Noyon sector the French also made a slight advance north of Renaud. There has been lively artillery activity here as well as around Verdun.

An Immense Army.

The end of America's first war year ends more than 500,000 soldiers under arms, a thousand of whom are in France. The war expenditure has been twelve billion for the first year. Uncle Sam's navy, greatly enlarged, continues to aid the allied fleet in keeping the vital sea lanes open against the submarines and to aid the enemy navy within its harbor.

Japs Active.

Japanese naval forces have been landed at Vladivostok. Eastern Siberia to protect Japanese citizens and property. The landing is declared to have no connection with the possibility of armed Japanese intervention in Siberia.

Better Position.

London, April 6.—The British position south of the Somme was improved to some extent by counter attacks delivered in the neighborhood of Hargicourt, according to the war office announcement.

Along the whole front below Ayette in the sector north of Somme the struggle continued with violence until late yesterday evening. Although the Germans made incessant attacks they met with no further success.

Resume Fighting.

London, April 6.—The Germans last night attacked the British town of Corbie in the valley of the Somme. Steuter correspondent at British headquarters says the enemy advanced in dense waves. The outcome was not known at the time the dispute was filed. The main German thrust appears to be west of

TEACHERS OF ROCK COUNTY MET AT THE LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

Several Prominent Men in Educational Circles Gave Talks on Various Subjects.

How to make Johnny pick up his feet when he comes in the room and Gladys pay more attention to her studies were the big discussions at the meeting of the two hundred Rock County school marines under the auspices of the Rock County Teachers' Institute at the local high school, this morning. Throughout the meeting the theme of patriotism was manifested. All speakers referred to the part which the teacher can play in the unity of the country and the creation of greater manifestations of patriotism by the people at large.

President M. A. Brannon of Beloit college talk especially was along the line of patriotism and the forming of a closer connection between the schools and the community, and the power which the school wields through the child in the classroom.

He told of the government calling upon the teachers to use all their influence in the class rooms, more patriotism and closer national unity. That this is now being done by practically all teachers, indicated by the success of the present Liberty Loan and good spirit shown in taking the War Savings stamps and in the various other ways in which the country has called upon the school children through the teachers to do their bit.

He spoke of the different social life now as compared with several decades ago. Saying the educational system is not so difficult now as at that time due to the use of machinery and that the whole status of social life has been revolutionized. Education he said was only for the purpose of fitting the child for a definite place in society.

Professor A. W. Burr of Beloit college spoke on teaching spelling. His topic was mainly on arousing the friendly spirit of competition among pupils. He illustrated various ways in which this can be done, one of which was dividing the class in two sections, one for the "finders" and the others the "spellers." The finders are to look for words which the spellers must spell and in this way those who misspell a word are among the spellers while those who spell it correctly are among the "finders." He said that in this way the proficiency in spelling is sure to increase.

President Asa M. Royce of the Plateville Normal school gave a talk on "Live School Lesson." He said that the children must have a motive for doing every lesson, also that a student must know why he is doing. There are three things to be said here: one, the pupils must know what the "lesson." He said that in this way the intention is to co-operate with the recognized governmental agencies in stamping out treason in high and low places.

Mr. Burr's creed is assisting the government in annihilating and throttling German propaganda which forms the third line of German offense and defense and which is proving more effective than the first line of bayonets.

In addition, the campaign is being conducted to those who have near and dear relatives "over there," and the intention is to co-operate with the International News.

Washington, April 6.—Before 8:30 this morning, or within half an hour after the third liberty loan campaign officially opened, three towns reported by telegraph to liberty loan headquarters that they had subscribed their full quota. The names of the communities are withheld until the precise time the messages were filed and have been determined. One was Southboro, Mass., whose committee filed its message on the minute of 8, saying $119,250 had been subscribed, exceeding its quota by $26,250. Twenty percent of the town's population had subscribed.

Fast and Furious.

By ten o'clock more than 20 towns had wired headquarters claiming the distinction of being first to subscribe their quota and it began to appear a task to determine which community was entitled to the honor, since the campaign opened at 9:00, local time. Communities west still have from one to three hours in which to file their reports.

WILL MAKE EFFORTS TO BRING WAR FUND CAMPAIGN TO CLOSE

Appeal for Immediate Action is Made by Executive Committee—Red Cross is Granted An Approval.

Members of the executive committee of the county war fund campaign, at the meeting held yesterday afternoon were unanimously in favor of reaching some means that would bring the fund drive to an immediate close. As some people have not yet contributed, there are to the day at the front who are giving their lives for the continuance of the work were discussed and an urgent call has been issued for all persons having an income on property on which they should pay an assessment, to do so immediately.

The office at North Main street will be open daily to receive the money or notes. The office will also be open this evening until nine o'clock.

As calls for funds are being made at the present time and will be in the future, the committee feels that the work should come to a head. Already the local Red Cross chapters in this county have been forced to ask for a portion of the funds which are guaranteed to the drive as their work could be halted unless they could have the funds to work with. The executive committee in their meeting decided that an appropriation of $5,500 a month for a period of three months should be granted to meet the emergency. This sum will go to Beloit and the Janesville chapters and will be distributed to the auxiliaries of these two chapters.

The campaign has been under way for some time, but during the past week or ten days there has been a lull in the payments and the workers in the movement decided that steps to force the issue were necessary. They feel that in the length of time as will be required by the present plan were continued is unwarranted, and that the people of the county should be more than willing to furnish the backing for the American troops who are now seeing active service in the front line in France. When the collection of funds has been completed it will mean the Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, Red Cross and War Service funds which are endorsed by President Wilson, will be cared for by the people of Rock county in an efficient manner.

George S. Parker, who has been absent from his post as publicity manager for the past two weeks, is again back in the city and will lead the drive to bring the campaign to a close.

PLANS TO RUN FOR OFFICE OF SHERIFF

Under-Sheriff Fred Belye of the County Jail Will be Candidate for Sheriff.—In the First in the Field.

The opening gun of the full campaign for county offices was fired this evening with Under-Sheriff Fred Belye announced that he would be a candidate for the office of sheriff of Rock county at the primary election in September to succeed Robert O. Whipple. He is the first man to make known his intentions of running for any county office, but more will no doubt come forward before the end of the campaign.

Mr. Belye was formerly a resident of Beloit, but for the past fifteen months he has acted as under-sheriff to Sheriff Whipple. Due to the great amount of time consumed by Mr. Whipple in his voluntary work on the local draft board, Mr. Belye has become very familiar with the work and he is well fitted to succeed the present incumbent.

VOTE FOR SENATOR WAS MOST DECISIVE PATRIOTIC VICTORY

By Ellis B. Usher.

Milwaukee, April 6.—"Twas a glorious victory" and Europe easily interpreted. The more carefully results are analyzed the plainer the facts will appear. I need only to make a few suggestions. Based on the latest incomplete returns at hand, Davies carried one county—Green Lake—by a clear majority. Victor Berger easily carried four—Calumet, Shawano, Oconto and Washington. Davies got 17 counties by plurality and Berger six. Davies carried twelve counties in all, and Berger ten. Mr. Lenroot carried forty-nine counties in all, thirty-four generally small counties by majorities, and fifteen generally average counties by pluralities, one and Rock, were the last to be counted. Davies got 136,149, while Berger carried Brown, Fond du Lac, Kenosha, La Crosse, Outagamie, Winnebago and Washington by pluralities, and Berger carried Milwaukee, Dodge, Manitowoc, Marathon and Sheboygan, among the more populous counties of the state.

The vote is large, approximating 1,000,000, big enough to be reliable. Lenroot has an approximation of 560,000 votes; Davies, 137,000; Berger, 104,000. The total vote of 1916 was 2,490,000 in round figures. Then Follette for senator got 261,303 and William F. Wilson got 136,149, which was larger than the total vote received by the Republicans and smaller than 1,000 than the total polled by Davies. La Follette's vote exceeded Lenroot's by over 100,000.

To quit figures for generalization the vote that Berger got came from the Republicans. It was largely for La Follette and Philip two years ago. The Democrats have lost more than half of the seats they won more than four years ago during the past four years.

La Follette has been and is the master of the Republican situation and the figures prove it. The election was a Republican job and it has been done with La Follette's assistance. Davies never had Democratic votes enough to "look" like a majority. A great many of the votes he received on Tuesday were Republican votes, but he had no hope unless Republicans were opposed to pro-Germanism more than they were to Wilson, and the vote shows they were not.

Wisconsin owes this endorsement to and reinstatement of La Follette to the Republican party as a whole, national and local. He has demonstrated that he has all along claimed, that the Republicans of Wisconsin back him. He really did it two years ago, when he polled more than half of all the votes cast, and "Billy" polled all the Democrats there were.

Teddy's Campaign.

During the primary campaign Col. John Flanagan was managing for Thompson, told the outside newspaper men that "all the Wisconsin congressmen" were for Thompson. That, of course, technically omitted La Follette. But the campaign was as these letters have forecast, a beginning of Roosevelt's campaign for 1916. What now remains to be demonstrated is how long the Roosevelt and La Follette men pull together? "Eddy" shook up Wisconsin in 1912 so that he let Wilson through, and in 1916 squeaked through because McGovern was being punished for being a "Bull Moose" two years before.

A Milwaukee newspaper that usually has its ear at Bob's keyhole said the other day that Bob is going to gather his clan immediately for the fall campaign. The chances are good that he will back Thompson against Philip. Wheeler Bloodgood, the "Bull Moose" giant, has gone east to consult the oracles about the advisability of his plan to commence proceedings to have Dan Hoan thrown out of the mayoralty to which he has just been re-elected. Wheeler has promised this in advance, and he must now make good or "crawl."

The fan hereafter in Wisconsin is to be monopolized by the anti-Wilson Republican party, headed by "Eddy," the man who made Wilson president. "Bob" will stand for it. Philip and Lenroot are merely pawns on the board.

This is not said in any bad blood disappointment on my part, nor is any attempt to prophesy. These letters never held out any hope of the election of Davies. I have never believed me stood a chance. Certainly he stood none unless Republicans could elect him. They had the votes. They had no hope against a United Republican party, and the party was united and the united party won. It will win in Wisconsin this fall, all along the line, if it remains united.

One of the most discriminating comments I have seen this year comes from The Insurance Observer. I can't republish it all here. Here's an extract that will please all friends of the Company and have their endorsement.

"Well, it was a veteran life insurance man who invented and created the Old Line Insurance Company and gave it not only its name but its prestige and success. Mr. Rupert F. Fry long ago demonstrated his remarkable ability to get business for companies that he represented and more recently he has demonstrated his position of a real unusual ability that could not be matched by any company that could be found in the country. It is not eight years since Mr. Fry started out to construct a new line from Prospectville to the city of Achleitern, and in that time he has laid the rails, equipped the road and put trains into regular schedule. The Old Line Life promises to become one of the best patronized lines in operation, and all believe that an able engineer planned and constructed it, and an able executive is now operating it. It is not often that the able engineer and the able executive are combined in one individual, but it happens to be so in the case of President Fry."

The general office reports an increase of business 25% for over 1917. Short Notes.

The Dodge County Banner came out this week with an English weekly after twenty-four years of publication in the German language. The Banner is published at Mayville. E. J. Loeffelholz, brother of Paul, being president of the company and editor. The paper is about all the honor that has been done the past week to memory of Paul Husting. I am glad that his family members live fine example. This is the second Wisconsin paper thus far in the German language. The West Bend Beobachter was the first. Both papers are to be congratulated and commended. Clarence Powers, a well-known newspaper man, who has seen service on Milwaukee papers and elsewhere in the state, is to edit the newly "Englished" Banner. He will do well.

The other business of the Wisconsin state commission these days is the consideration of applications for permission to raise rates. They come from all classes of public utilities, the municipalities, being especially notorious. Public ownership and the penalizing of private ownership are bringing new lessons to the public.

Notes on Red Cross Work

(Arranged by Mrs. Abbie Helms.) Hospital Supplies Department. This department received this week from Edgerton a box containing 141 beautiful garments, all made within a period of three weeks; also very fine work from the following branches: Aviation, 25 shirts, 11 suits of clothes and many smaller articles, making 80 pieces; Tanning, 100 garments; Knitting, 15 suits of clothes. The Janesville chapter women are now doing work that is practically perfect; but the committee find it necessary to ask for a change in making the suits, which notice will be received by Saturday. This seems to suit us now to have fallen on the outside, as they are done in hospital shirts. Hems are to be made either outside or inside. The shirts are to be made either of cotton flannel or twill jeans (Muslin bleached or unbleached) acceptable but not desirable).

The committee shipped last week 200 cases of garments only, as no small articles are now being sent. This completes 1,260 hospital shirts sent to division headquarters, and 1,550 suits of clothes completed by the women of this chapter.

New groups were started this week in the Christian church, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Cowdery, and Mrs. Allen, two Congregational circles, numbers 5 and 7, and the Baptist Church Women's union, represented by Mrs. Alfred Olsen, began work. The women who are working are completing a large amount of beautiful supplies in the two lines, urgently needed in France. But a great number of women are not yet awakened to the need that may soon be brought home to us all; namely, the necessity for an output requiring the combined efforts of the women of the city as well as the county. The women of the country will soon find it necessary to devote their energies entirely to the same kind of work, and the city woman who is not working in any line of relief should make extra efforts to help along these lines.

One faithful worker from the country, who is already cooking for seven men, came in last week, bringing a large pile of work for the soldiers made by her group. She remarked that she had washed up her dinner dishes before she left home, but must get back in time to get supper for those seven men.

Such work as this goes far toward supporting the sacrifices of our boys at the front. We have only to consider that the 50,000 articles completed by this one committee in the fourteen months since the work began would provide for only a very small portion of the wounded after one battle.

The refugee clothing committee acknowledged with thanks donations from Avalon, Hanover, and St. Peter's church circle.

Refugee Dressings Department. Mrs. W. F. Bosworth, Chairman—Volunteers are urgently needed in this department to help in the very large task of getting out the 50,000 dressings asked for by the central headquarters for this month. A box of $6,000 has been shipped as the first output, and they are of the usual high standard of excellence of this year. The largest day's work was on Tuesday when 1,250 dressings were made.

Classes for volunteer workers are being started every day and the following have served as instructors at tables during the week:

Miss Mary Barker, Mrs. W. W. Miller, Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. M. G. Mount, and Mrs. Stanley Tracy. The gauge for the Chicago headquarters and in sufficient quantities to supply the demand.

The Knitting Department. Mrs. George S. Parker, Chairman—This department has plenty of stock yarn on hand and has kept the members busy in this line. They hope to have some sweater yarn by the middle of next week. Two or three men in Janesville are knitting and are quite expert in their work. A beautiful sweater was sent in from Fulton last week which was knitted by a man in that community, and was of very fine workmanship. A very large amount of work was received recently from Edgerton and Fulton, and also work of great quality from Evansville, Magnolia, Coopersville, Hanover, and our county house. The shipment next before the last sent from this department 55 sweaters, 100 pairs socks, 110 pairs wristlets, 30 scarves and five helmets. Another shipment on Thursday included 85 sweaters, 150 pairs socks, 90 pairs wristlets, 30 scarves and five caps.

RED CROSS OPENS FRENCH BABY SHOW

(By INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Lyon, France, April 6.—The greatest baby show in the history of France opened here today.

Proud French mothers bearing infant offspring, all literally dressed in best bib and tucker, arrived early today in the Place Bellercourt waiting to be assigned to proper places in the "Pavilion," the great building in the center of Lyon, where chairs and sofas are annually held.

Begun today on the first anniversary of America's entrance into the war, America and France joined hands in earnest to make the baby show a feature in the great campaign being conducted to save infant life of France.

Opening the exhibit, Senator Herrlett, mayor of Lyon and former minister of recruitment, spoke of the campaign, its vital need and appreciation in France.

LOYALTY PARADE MARKS LIBERTY DAY CELEBRATION

(By INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Pittsburgh, April 6.—This city's memorial to the first anniversary of the declaration of war against Germany will be staged tomorrow—a monster loyalty parade in which 25,000 workers of foreign birth will march. The German Soldiers association—leading the bands of marchers in Pittsburgh's birch—will have a predominant place in the line. This is an organization under command of Jacob Morgenstern and is composed of veterans of the Franco-Prussian war.

Austrians will be in the line by thousands together with Poles, Slavs and Czechs. More than twenty bands will provide music for the march, and of whom will carry banners urging the purchase of Liberty loan bonds and thrift stamps and close cooperation in the economic movements of the day.

Big Gains for Drys.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 6.—R. P. Hutton, superintendent of the Wisconsin Saloon League, claims a gain in population of 80,000 as the result of the wet and dry vote in Tuesday's election. On the basis of returns thus far, he says, cities numbering 96,000 in population went into the dry column, while towns making up a population of 16,000 swung from the dry to the wet column.

The important cities that went dry are Milwaukee, Menomonee, Superior, Elkhorn, Ashland, Nellisville, Niagara, Spooner, Weyauwega, Wabeno, La Valle, Amherst, Gilman, Jump River and Mannabel.

Those that went back to wet are Neenah, Park Falls, Phillips, Fort Atkinson, Lake Mills, Friesland, Doyleston, Briggsville, Sommers and Little Suamico.

DEMONSTRATION OF LOYALTY IN CUBA

(By ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Havana, Cuba, April 6.—On the eve of the first anniversary of Cuba's declaration of war against Germany, the government has organized a day of celebration in all Latin-American countries, extensive preparations have been made for a demonstration of loyalty to the enemies tomorrow.

The Cuban navy has assumed patrol duty not only in Cuban territorial waters, but also far out in the Caribbean Sea, and is augmented by a fleet of submarine chasers, while other craft are under construction. In addition to these military and naval measures, many young Cubans are now in the French battle lines as infantrymen and aviators.

Since Cuba's war declaration, many activities, some military and naval others economic, have been put in motion here to aid the United States.

From the time when the German and Austrian steamships seized in Cuban waters were turned over outright as a gift to the United States shipping board, until the present, when Cuba is mobilizing her military resources to send a force of from 10,000 to 20,000 men to France, the whole policy of the republic has been to subordinate other interests to those obligations of alliance which her declaration of war entailed. The Cuban army and navy have been reorganized, and experts from the United States army staff have estimated that Cuba's military force could be enlarged to a maximum of 100,000 men and maintained at that figure indefinitely.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

One of the best places to study human nature at close range, is the small southern resort, where the tourists and natives mingle together on the most friendly terms. The little town of Cleveland, Florida—with its "National Hotel," where half a dozen of the regular guests have assembled every winter for the past fifteen or twenty years—is a place of this kind, and everything about the place, including the natives, is as familiar as the back yard at home.

The little town was named for the Cleveland family, who established their home forty years ago, across the river, a couple of miles away. Mr. Cleveland was a florist and an idealist, and spent much of his time cultivating a choice flower garden, keeping the hotel well supplied with roses. Mrs. Cleveland was of German extraction, and while her husband was raising roses for pleasure, she was raising boys for the war, and shortly after the seventh son was born, the good Lord transplanted the father to a land of perpetual blossoms, and gave the mother a chance to bring up the boys.

This she proceeded to do under very discouraging circumstances, for the nearest school was across the river, three miles away, with no means of transportation but a rowboat, but the boys took to the water like ducks, and by the time they were ready to go to work, they had acquired a limited knowledge of text books, but a fund of information from their practical mother. They knew the harbor with its treacherous channels. They knew all about boats and motors, and so they found ready employment as pilots, engineers, or cooks, if need be, and all of them gave a good account of themselves.

The two youngest are home on a furlough from Hampton Roads, where they have been for the past six months, in the naval service. Another son is waiting for orders to report at Key West, in the naval reserve. The service flag which hangs in the window of the old Cleveland cottage displays three stars, and when the proud mother says in broken dialect, "What do you think of my boys?" you feel like taking her by the hand and saying, "God bless you for a good mother."

Across the grass-grown street from the hotel is a typical colored man's home. It is a two-story house with upper and lower galleries on either side and across the end. The house and fence and outbuildings are whitewashed frequently and the place is a miniature of the old plantation house before the war. This property is the home of George Brown, the owner of the shipyard, which has a water front of several hundred feet and is well equipped for handling and storing boats which he takes care of for customers during the summer months. If Mr. Brown was a white man he would be the aristocrat of the place, as he is intelligent and well to do.

Among his patrons is Mr. Dean, a wealthy man from Boston, who has spent his winters cruising in these waters for twenty years or more. His boat, the "Aroostook," is equipped with the comforts and luxuries of an ocean liner and is said to have cost thirty-five thousand dollars. He carries a crew of from eight to ten men and a separate boat for his four dogs, with a man in charge. He hunts all through the open season, for all kinds of game, and fishes for big game fish.

The Deans are well along in life and the cramped quarters of a boat with no society for six months, is very trying to a woman, as it was to Mrs. Dean, and family jars became so frequent that the boat sailed out of the harbor at Punta Gorda, one day this week and left her up town shopping. When she returned to the dock the boat was nowhere in sight and with it had gone her wardrobe and everything else but her bank account. Then she hired a launch and came up to Cleveland where the boat frequently lies at anchor.

After a day or two she went to Jacksonville to buy her some clothes, and then returned to renew the search. One day she found the craft anchored behind an island, out of sight, where it had been in hiding for three weeks, while Mr. Dean was recovering from a surgical operation for some complaint which had long annoyed him. He wanted to be undisturbed, so took this means of giving his wife the slip. The lady returned to Boston shortly after, while Mr. Dean and his ship are still here.

The moral atmosphere of the place has improved under the influence of the Holy Rollers, who maintain services in a little chapel out in the woods, a mile from town. The creed appeals to the natives, who are more or less impulsive, and has redeemed some of the men from drink and other bad habits. A small Methodist house of worship has also been completed, during the past year, and the Punta Gorda pastor fills the pulpit every third Sunday evening.

The Reverend gentleman is a big man, not strikingly handsome, who paws the air with his hands, stamps around with his feet, and roars like a bull, when attempting to reach a climax which hardly seems worth the effort, after he has gone over the top. His little audience, a couple of weeks ago, included several guests from the hotel. The women came home tearing their hair, because they felt insulted.

The speaker attempted to prove that he world was waiting for a man to lead the hosts of Israel against the Germans. He said that the first man, Adam, was hand-made, because God made him and was a perfect man until woman and the devil spoiled him, and the couple had been engaged in the same business ever since. Of the two he thought that woman was the worst. What suffrage might do for her it was hard to tell, but she seemed bound to have it, and he couldn't stop her. His own wife, who was present, looked as though she had been stopped all her life.

The monotony of the little place has been relieved for the past week by the presence of a fruit buyer, who owns most of the fruit in this section, and who is shipping a carload a day to his packing house in Arcadia. Oranges are worth four dollars a box, on the trees, but grape-fruit is a drug on the market, owing to the scarcity of sugar. The choicest fruit is selling here at one dollar a box on the trees.

Here is an appendix to the fish story which appeared a week ago. Mr. Chadoon and his boatman, with Dr. Hale, were out for tarpon last Tuesday, still-fishing from a rowboat. One of the lines commenced to run out and in a moment a big fish went out of the water, not six feet away, and when he turned to dive he grazed the side of the boat, drenching the fishermen, who just escaped being capsized.

The same afternoon the people on the veranda at the hotel noticed some big fish swimming around the dock just in front of the house. There were three of them, and they proved to be sawfish, evidently attracted by dead fish thrown off the end of the dock. It was decided to capture one of them, if possible, and so a native boatman, with one of the guests, went out with a harpoon and the fight was on. The water was so shallow that the big fish could not dive, and soon, by the aid of half a dozen men he was landed on the beach. The sawfish belongs to the shark family. This one measured fourteen feet from tip to tip, and weighed better than five hundred pounds. The saw was three feet and eight inches long.

Such is life in one of the quietest resorts on the west coast of Florida. The little hotel, which has been filled with nice people, all winter, is nearly deserted, for the season is over, and the weather uncomfortably warm, but the climate, and beautiful panorama of scenery remain, while memory harks back to the pleasant associations of a dozen winters in this little wayside retreat.

NOT BAD PHILOSOPHY.

Here is the philosophy of the author, which is rather sensible philosophy at this time when the great world issue is at its crisis: "Two things, one thing is certain. Either you are in the air or you are on the ground. If you are on the ground, there is no need to worry. If you are in the air, one of two things is certain. Either you are flying straight or you are turning over."

If you are flying straight there is no need to worry. If you are turning over, one of two things is certain. Either you fall or you don't."

If you don't fall there is no need to worry. If you do fall, one of two things is certain. Either you are injured or you are not injured.

If you are not injured, there is no need to worry. If you are injured, one of two things is certain. Either you are injured slightly or you are injured seriously.

If you are injured slightly, there is no need to worry. If you are injured seriously, one of two things is certain to happen. Either you recover or you die.

If you recover, there is no need to worry. If you die, you can't worry. So why worry?

They are trying to think up a new name for Von Hindenburg's war epigrams. Why not call them Ivory Dust?

One thing we have always wanted to know is how many lumps Mr. Hoover puts in his coffee.

In the meantime, don't be unpatriotic. Eat the reduced bread portion and be glad you have it.

Well, we see the Germans have won the well-known war again. This is the fifth time they have won the war.

The truth seems to be that the war definitely refuses to stay won. It's a most cantankerous war that way. Wars are always tickle.

Recently the Germans have won the war.

Only about once a year.

With a little more efficiency the Germans ought to be able to win the war about twice a year, and keep the home folks kidded.

The beast of Berlin says he wants no "soft peace."

Cheer up, Bill! We'll try to make it hard enough.

EFFIGY OF BERGER

BURNED IN EDGERTON

Citizens Hold Monster Patriotic Parade Last Evening.

[EXCERPT FROM THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, April 6.—Beneath Old Glory, erected in honor of the soldiers of the Civil War, was hung and burned in effigy last night after a red hot loyalty meeting held at Royal hall at which Professor W. Kieckoffer of the University at Madison delivered a patriotic address. Word was passed around the city yesterday that a patriotic meeting was to be held and that a parade would follow the meeting at promptly 7:45 p.m. The Edgerton band was on hand and formed at the head of the parade. Next in line were banner carriers which bore the inscription, "Be All-American," "88 Skunk Votes in Edgerton," "Lead Our Soldiers," "Every man in the field deserved a U.S. flag and a grim determination that Edgerton should be made thoroughly loyal. As the word was passed through the city yesterday afternoon threats were made by some of our disloyal citizens that the affair could not be held. The committee in charge of the demonstration were determined that the parade would go through with no hitch. At the beginning and halting of the disloyal citizens and feeling ran high. One remarked that there was liable to be another demonstration with the real thing and that there would be so many on hand to participate. The parade was four blocks long and as the marchers went along the ranks fell in line and cheered and helped swell the parade. At the hall Professor Holt gave a short talk and requested the band to play the "Star Spangled Banner." The audience joined in the singing. Mr. Holt then introduced the speaker, Mr. Kieckoffer, whose stirring appeal was the best of his life ever delivered. He brought home what would happen should Germany win the war in a most forcible manner. The affair of last evening has set the citizens to thinking on the serious side of the war situation and it is high time that some should change their attitude.

The employees of the Highway Traveler company will be given a banquet by the company this evening. The banquet will be served at the high school gym and under the direction of Miss Hoen and the domestic science class. A full attendance is desired at the annual meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs Monday evening at library hall. Election of officers and other important business to conduct for the federation. Miss O. C. NEW RULING IS MADE FOR POST PACKAGES

No More Parcel Post Packages May Be Sent to United States Expeditionary Forces—Should Send Money.

"Send no parcels post packages to the soldiers in Europe." This is the order received by Postmaster J. J. Cunningham from the war department. This order came after it was found necessary to decrease the huge amount of parcels post packages which were taking up a considerable amount of time in the boats.

Postmaster Cunningham said that those who wish to send anything to the boys in the expeditionary forces in France should send money, as the boys have the opportunity to buy articles cheaper in France than they can be bought at home.

The post office now has orders not to accept any packages for the boys unless a written certificate is given indicating such package is given to the postmaster, signed by some one in the regiment in which the recipient is located. This order does not affect any other mail.

ACTION STARTED TO COLLECT SUM OF $350

Stephen Fanning Begins Case in Municipal Court Against F. J. Borden

Case Set for April 10.

Stephen Fanning has begun action in the municipal court against F. J. Borden in an effort to gain the payment of $350 for a crop of tobacco which was sold to Borden. A previous action in which J. Borden and L. Carle were the defendants, but the case was dismissed as the action was started against the wrong parties.

The judge has set April 15 as the date for the hearing of testimony in the case. According to Fanning, the crop of tobacco in question was delivered to Borden for payment and when the tobacco was delivered payment was deferred as a garnishee was placed against the crop. The garnishee was placed by parties who believe that the crop is the property of the son and not of the father. The plaintiff in the case holds that he is entitled to the $350 and that the garnishee cannot be placed against him.

Horace Blackman Receives Letter From War Work Secretary of Y. M. C. A.

Horace Blackman of this city, has received a letter from W. E. Stewart, a war work secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in France. Mr. Stewart in his letter gives the best kind of a description of the work being done by the Y. M. C. A. for our soldiers in France.

He tells of the manner in which the boys are served and also describes the mode of living and the work of the Y. M. C. A. luts on or near the battle front.

Mr. and Mrs. Belinema, who live on a farm near Milton, have received a letter from their son, who is a member of Company M, telling of the trip across the Atlantic and describing the places where the unit has been.

They are now located. The letter follows:

March 9, 1918.

Dear Friend: Received your letter and was glad to get same and receive news from the States as news has been pretty scarce over here. The American papers say that the Tribunal has been put up with the news from the state, but it is not very satisfying to a man hungry for news.

After arriving at Paris we were assigned to a divisional area where the combined French and American forces are holding the front line and our duties here have consisted of holding the warehouse or carrying supplies, staying in the M. C. A. posts in this division.

Mr. and Mrs. Belinema, who live on a farm near Milton, have received a letter from their son, who is a member of Company M, telling of the trip across the Atlantic and describing the places where the unit has been.

This letter is meant to include a period of not less than four months after the close of the present war.

This reserve organization furnishes its own uniforms and equipment, but in the case of the Sixteenth Separate Company received they will use the uniforms supplied by the state for the use of the active company. It is expected a separate platoon will be formed and a drill night, other than the regular Monday evening drill of the active company, designated. Non-commissioned and commissioned officers of the regular company will act as drill masters and the men will be given training in the regular line.

This reserve guard will not be called on for service outside the home county, and will not even be ordered out until all the state guard forces have been utilized. They can purchase their uniform and equipment in the regular line and the quartermaster's department of cost will be armed and clothed in similar uniforms to the state guard, except for a different collar device designating them as reserves.

When a vacancy occurs in the active company, reservists can be transferred to another area which for the time being at least will take us a considerable distance from the front lines. The experience and trip over here have been more interesting in words can tell. Starting from Halifax after a long trip from Liverpool and proceeding the same night to London where we stayed for a week. During the week one of the worst bomb raids that ever happened occurred and it seemed to center directly around where we were. After leaving London we proceeded to Paris where we stayed four days much time in between. We were received at the Hotel Metropole.

We were receiving a fair supply of Chocolate, Fatima, Lucky Strike, Sweet Cornpops, Prince Albert, candies, hard candies and other items for the canteens, but the demand is greater than the supply. The soldiers in this district are living in abandoned dugouts, in villages in ruined villages and in some cases they have the regular frame de baracca. The Y. M. C. A. men share the accommodations of the soldiers and the huts so-called are usually a cave, a ruined building or a corner set aside wherever available for our purposes, and the men in charge of these should be given a good deal of room.

Food supplies are sold as cheap as possible. They have just marketed a carload of oranges from Italy at two cents apiece, and we are giving the soldiers a great deal of service free, including a carload of apples from Washington and Idaho, free coffee, cocoa and bouillon under certain conditions, and today we are putting out the Saturday evening Post for February 23rd.

Women and children are scarce here and the civilian population of the better class is apparently all gone.

We have no Y. M. C. A. women in this area and a smile from a good looking American girl would make many a heart glad. Will write again when the opportunity presents itself.

Stewart.

ARE URGED TO WATCH FOR FROST WARNINGS

People Advised to Heed Weather Bureau's Warnings of Frost and Protect Young Plants From Being Killed.

Because of the urgent necessity for increasing in every way possible the available food supply the home gardener is this year an economic factor of unusual importance. Realizing this the weather bureau is prepared to do its best to keep the public advised of the weather conditions and to issue them warnings of expected frost.

The warnings will be sent out by telegraph, telephone and mail, and through the medium of the daily papers. It is realized that the best way to reach the public is through the press. Most of the papers of the country expect to make a special feature of frost warnings this spring, and the home gardeners are urged to watch the daily papers for these warnings.

In some of the large fruit and gardening districts elaborate systems of frost protection are in use, but because of their cost these systems are not adapted to the needs of the home gardener. A garden of average size may be protected in a simple and inexpensive manner unless the frost is so light a heavy covering of almost any material, such as hay or straw, is sufficient. Stable manure is excellent, as it generates heat by its own decomposition. If the wind is light straw, tires of damp straw or manure are effective. When the garden is small a few old burlap bags or an old cotton tortoise or tubes of water pinched at intervals in the garden will help. Because of air drainage frost forms easily on the hillsides rather than in the valleys. Frost warnings are telegraphed to a large number of telephone exchanges and arranged to receive the warnings.

ORFORDVILLE SHEEP RAISERS INTERESTED

Contestants in That Vicinity Are Out To Win Prizes—Meeting Held Last Night At Home of John Beck.

Interest in the county sheep raising contest continues to remain at a high pitch, and the contestants are using much care in an endeavor to have almost perfect animals. Last night John Beck, of Orfordville, who is one of the men who agreed to operate with the contestants and to help them with their problems relative to the contest were discussed.

He gave them hints on feeding and other points which combine to determine the growth and quality of sheep.

The embryo herdsmen asked questions freely, and it was felt a great amount of good was derived from the informal gathering. The parents of the contestants were also present, and they showed as much interest in the raising of the sheep as the boys themselves.

L. H. Markham, county agricultural agent gave a short talk on sheep raising, and his brother, R. H. Markham, of Bulgaria, spoke on conditions in European countries and especially in Bulgaria, caused by the war.

Light refreshments were served late in the evening.

LOAN COMMITTEE MOVE INTO NEW QUARTERS

Janesville Committee Has Office on North Main Street.—Loan Drive Will Open About April 15th.

At nine o'clock this morning the Third Liberty Loan campaign officially opened and the Janesville Committee were ready to present their final plans for the campaign's maturity. The office of the Janesville Committee is now on North Main street where the Council of Defense have their office. There is a large banner across the street in front of the building.

The city is ready for the campaign and the next ten days will be spent in hard work for the committee. It is planned that the presentation to start the big loan drive about the middle of this month. Several big mass meetings are being planned.

It is the plan of the local committee to secure the Jackie band from the Great Lakes Naval training station for one of the meetings and Mr. Gillen of Racine will be in the city to address the people at one of the gatherings.

This terrible war is being brought home more closely to the people each day, and it is time that the citizens realize that their home property are in danger and that in order for our gallant boys who have left their homes to fight to remain on foreign soil the people back home must make sacrifices and one of the things they must do is to buy Liberty Bonds.

All of the committees for soliciting will be ready in time for the drive. The masters of the different industries are going to say a few words on Liberty Bond night Sunday, and the country school teachers are going to arrange for patriotic meetings to be held in the school houses to stimulate interest in the campaign and to assist in having Rock County on of the first to raise their required quota.

Enlisted Yesterday for Auto Transport Service With Wilmuth Davison and Paul Richards.

Instantaneous decision is the best attribute of a soldier in the war and this characteristic was yesterday eloquently illustrated in the enlistment of Ross Lowry, who at three o'clock yesterday afternoon had no thoughts of leaving and one-half an hour later was speeding toward Columbus, Ohio, with two friends, Wilmuth Davison and Paul Richards. It was always characteristic of Ross Lowry to arrive at quick decisions, especially in sports, but it was never so wonderfully manifested as his rapid action yesterday afternoon. He was examined by Private Matthew Kurth, the recruiting officer for automobile service, and was given his transportation immediately.

Bargains in most everything are listed in the classified columns.

SIDE LIGHTS on the CIRCUS BUSINESS

By D. W. WATT
Former Manager Burr Robbins and Later Treasurer of Adam Forspaugh Circuses.

It was just forty years ago this month that I landed out on a circus steerer boat for the first time. Now this would indicate that I either started in the business very young or that a few years had piled up behind me in the meantime. I commenced work at the winter quarters of the Burr Robbins show, helping as best a greenhorn could in fitting out the show and getting ready for the opening, and the first exhibition was given here in Janesville.

I naturally thought as I was to be in the ticket wagon and gazed at by thousands of people every day, that I must have new spring suit, low-cut tan shoes, and my wardrobe was such as I should have had in July and August. For several days in the morning I was up early and had an occasional sprinkling of snow, so it did not take me long to see that my summer suit and low-cut shoes were not the kind to wade around in the mud with the wagon show.

While these were not the only mistakes I made in my early career in the business, remedied the others is best possible, and the only one left, or, besides Burr Robbins imposed upon me for a time, it was not so long after I declared myself, and it was only two years later that I was manager of the show, much to the surprise of many of those who had seen me only two years before launched me in the business working around the country, and my low-cut shoes. But these like experiences are always with the tenderfoot in the circus business when they first join.

The show that year after making a dozen or more Wisconsin towns moved into Kansas and Nebraska. It proved to be the hardest lesson that I ever put in in the business. The towns were far between and in many cases distant, and the western trip a long performance would be over by 9 o'clock and the show would immediately pull out for the next town overland, very often thirty or forty miles distant. On many occasions we worked all day and traveled all night, and it is fair to say that when this show closed that fall, was a record showing for the wagon show business was concerned.

BUSY LITTLE BEE CLUB DOING RED CROSS WORK

Miss Adel Esser, on North Franklin street, entertained the members of the Busy Little Bee club, this afternoon, at 2:30 p.m. Monday, April 1, going direct to Albuquerque, N. M., where the first performance of the season has been set for today. The city has been a center of the show for a number of years past. After making a few stops other stands the show will go direct to California, to remain at least three weeks.

Ed. Ballard, proprietor of the Hagenbeck & Wallace show, has engaged two of the Gorlmar brothers, who act in the show some years ago with the Patterson Carnival company. Charles Gorlmar will be the acting manager with the show this season, taking up his work some three weeks ago and is fast getting the show ready to take the road and to have it better than ever before. Fred Gorlmar, his brother, will be the general advanced man and manager of the entertainment section of the show. As these two men have been in the business some twenty years they should be valuable men with the Hagenbeck & Wallace show the coming season, and Janesville would indeed be lucky if it were counted among other stands the coming season.

I will always remember thirty-six years ago today that I first sold my first ticket with the old Adams Forepaugh show at Washington, D. C., where we exhibited three days Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The show went from there to Baltimore, where it remained three days, and then to Philadelphia for two weeks. We had an enormous business and I was more than anxious to make good, and think it was the hardest three weeks' work that I ever did in the show business.

BIG DECREASE NOTED IN INSANITY CASES

WALWORTH

Only One Person Has Been Committed to an Asylum for Three Months—Total for Last Year Was Fifteen Commitments

Records of the county court as made by the people of Registrar in town show that only one person from the county has been committed to an asylum so far this year. This is a noteworthy fact for the reason that last year for the corresponding three months ending the first of April twenty-one persons were committed, while for the same period in the year 1915 fifteen victims of insanity were sent to asylums.

If the number of commitments continues at the present rate, which is most gratifying to the authorities, a decrease will be noted at the end of the year. In the entire year there were forty-four commitments. In 1916 there were forty-eight. Last year there were fifty.

The decrease for the first three months of the present year is most surprising. It would seem that with the unusual conditions existing at the present time and with the mental stress which many people are bearing this is due to the war that the number of cases of insanity would show an increase. No reason has been advanced for the astonishing decrease.

There was a horrified cry from the other white men. Don Pablo Peña ran forward, shouting. He swung his machete, but Sebastian met him before the blow could descend, and they went down together upon the hard stones. Again Sebastian smote, with his massive hands wrapped in the chain and his wrists encased in steel, and this time it was as if Don Pablo's head had been caught between a hammer and an anvil. The negro's strength, exceptional at all times, was multiplied tenfold; he had run amuck. When he arose the bones were in his grasp and Don Pablo's brains were on his knuckles.

All that night people from the town below came and went and the quinta resounded to sobs and lamentations, but of all the relatives of the dead and wounded, Donna Isabel took her bereavement hardest. Strange to say, she could not be comforted. Now, when it was too late, she realized that she had overreached herself, having caused the death of the only two who knew the secret of the treasure. She remembered, also, Sebastian's statement that even the deeds of patent for the land were hidden with the rest, where ten thousand men in ten thousand years could never find them.

CHAPTER III.

"The O'Reilly."

Age and easy living had caused Don Mario de Castaño, the sugar merchant, to take on weight. He had, in truth, become so fat that he waddled like a penguin when he walked; and when he rode, the springs of his French Victoria gave up in despair.

In disposition Don Mario was practical and chromatic; he boasted that he had never had an illusion, never an interest outside of his business. And yet, on the day this story opens, this prosaic personage, in spite of his bulging waistband and his stout neckband, in spite of his short breath and his prickly heat, was in a very whirl of pleasurable excitement. Don Mario, in fact, suffered the greatest of all illusions: he was in love, and he believed himself beloved. The object of his adoration was little Rosa Varona, the daughter of his one-time friend Esteban. To be sure, he had met Rosa only twice since her return from her Yankee school, but twice had been enough; with prompt decision he had resolved to do her the honor of making her his wife.

Notwithstanding the rivulets of perspiration that were coursing down every fold of his flesh, and regardless of the fact that the body of his victoria was tipped at a drunken angle, as if struggling to escape the burdens of his great weight, Don Mario felt a jauntiness of body and of spirit almost like that of youth. He saw himself as a sundered prince riding toward the humble home of some obscure maiden whom he had graciously chosen to be his mate.

His arrival threw Donna Isabel into a flutter; the woman could scarcely contain her curiosity when she came to meet him, for he was not the sort of man to inconvenience himself by mere social visits. Their first formal greetings over, Don Mario surveyed the bare living room and remarked, lugubriously:

"I see many changes here."

"No doubt," the widow agreed. "Times have been hard since poor Esteban's death."

"What a terrible calamity that was! I shudder when I think of it," said he. "A shocking afflition, truly! and one I shall never get out of my mind."

"Shocking, yes. But what do you think of a rich man, like Esteban, who would leave his family destitute? Who would die without reverting the place where he had stored his treasure?"

Donna Isabel, it was plain, felt her wrongs keenly; she spoke with as much spirit as if her husband had permitted himself to be killed purely out of spite toward her.

"As if it were not enough to lose that treasure," the widow continued, stormily. "the government must free all our slaves. Tse! Tse! And now that there is no longer a profit in sugar, my plantations—"

"No profit in sugar? What are you saying?" queried the caller. "If your crops do not pay, then Pancho Cueto is cheating you. Get rid of him. But I didn't come here to talk about Esteban's hidden treasure, nor his plantations, nor Pancho Cueto. I came here to talk about your step-daughter, Rosa."

"So?" Donna Isabel looked up quickly.

"She interests me. She is more beautiful than the stars," Don Mario roared his eyes toward the high ceiling, which, like the sky, was tinted a vivid cerulean blue.

"She is now eighteen," the fat suitor went on, ecstatically, "and so altogether charming— But why waste time in pretty speeches? I have decided to marry her."

"Rosa has a will of her own," guardedly ventured the stepmother.

Don Mario broke out, testily: "Naturally, so have we all. Now let us speak plainly. You know me. I am a person of importance. I am rich enough to afford what I want, and I buy well. You understand? Well, then you are Rosa's guardian and you can bend her to your desires."

"If that were only so!" exclaimed the woman. "She and Esteban—what children! What tempers—just like their father's! They were to be their father's heirs, you know, and they blame me for his death; for our poverty, and for all the other misfortunes that have overtaken us. We live like cats and dogs."

Don Mario had been drumming his fat fingers impatiently upon the arm of his chair. Now he exclaimed:

"Your pardon, señora, but I am just now very little interested in your domestic relations. What you say about Rosa only makes me more eager, for I loathe the sleepy woman. Now tell me, is she— Has she any—affairs of the heart?"

"N-no, unless perhaps a flirtation with that young American, Juan O'Reilly." Donna Isabel gave the name its Spanish pronunciation of "O'Reilly."

"Juan O'Reilly? O'Reilly? Oh, yes! But what has he to offer a woman? He is little more than a clerk."

"That is what I tell her. Oh, it hasn't gone far as yet."

"Good!" Don Mario rose to leave, for the exertion of his ride had made him thirsty. "You may name your own de Esteban late on the afternoon of Dan Mario's visit. Instead of going directly to the house, as the merchant had done, O'Reilly turned off from the road and, after tethering his horse in a cluster of guava bushes, proceeded on foot. He did not like Donna Isabel, nor did Donna Isabel like him. Moreover, he had a particular reason for avoiding her today.

Just inside the Varona premises he paused an instant to admire the outlook. The Quinta commanded an excellent view of the Yumbi, on the one hand, and of the town and harbor on the other; no one ever climbed the hill from the city to gaze over into that hidden valley without feeling a pleasurable surprise at finding it still there. We are accustomed to think of perfect beauty as unsubstantial, evanescent; but the Yumbi never changed, and in that lay its supremest wonder.

Through what had once been well-tended grounds, O'Reilly made his way to a sort of sunken garden which, in spite of neglect, still remained the most charming nook upon the place. And there he sat down to wait for Rosa. The hollow was effectively screened from view by a growth of plantain, palm, orange, and tamarind trees; over the rocky walls ran a profusion of flowering plants and vines; in the center of the open space was an old well, its masonry curb all but crumbled away.

When Rosa at last appeared, O'Reilly felt called upon to tell her, somewhat dizzily, that she was beyond doubt the sweetest flower on all the Quinta de Esteban, and since this somewhat huckneyed remark was the boldest speech he had ever made to her, she blushed prettily, flashing him a dimpled smile of mingled pleasure and surprise.

"Oh, but I assure you I'm in no sweet temper," said she. "Just now I'm tremendously angry."

"Why?"

"It's that stepmother—Isabel. If she dreamed that I see you as often as I do— Well—" Rosa lifted her eloquent hands and eyes heavenward. "I suppose that's why I enjoy doing—it's dear lady's life totally unbearable."

"I see!" O'Reilly puffed his brows and nodded. "But why, in that case, haven't you seen me oftener? We might just as well have made the good lady's life totally unbearable."

"Silly! She knows nothing about it." With a flirtatious sigh Rosa added:

"That's what robs the affair of its chief pleasure. Since it does not bother her in the least, I think I will not allow you to come any more."

reward for helping me and I will pay it the day Rosa marries me. Now kindly advise her of my intentions and tell her I shall come to see her soon."

* * * * *

It was quite true that Johnnie O'Reilly—or "The O'Reilly," as his friends called him—had little in the way of worldly advantage to offer any girl, and it was precisely because of this fact that he had accepted a position here in Cuba, where, from the very nature of things, promotion was likely to be more rapid than in the New York office of his firm.

A dancing eye speaks every language; a singing heart gathers its own audience. Before the young Irish-American had more than a bowing acquaintance with some of the most exclusive people of Matanzas, he had adjusted himself serenely to his surroundings when Rosa Varona returned from school, but with her coming, away went all his compunction. His content vanished; he experienced a total change in his opinions, his hopes, and his ambitions.

He discovered, for example, that Matanzas was by no means the out-of-the-way place he had considered it; on the contrary, after meeting Rosa once by accident, twice by design, and three times by mutual arrangement, it had dawned upon him that this was the chief city of Cuba, if not perhaps, the hub around which the whole world revolved; certainly it was the most agreeable of all cities, since it contained everything that was necessary for man's happiness. Yet, despite the thrill of his awakening, O'Reilly was not at all pleased with himself, for, as it happened, there was another girl back home, and during his first year of loneliness he had written to her more freely and more frequently than any man on such a salary as his had a right to do.

Inasmuch as his father was O'Reilly's "company" it may be seen that Rosa Varona's home-coming seriously complicated matters, not only from a sentimental, but from a business standpoint.

It was in a thoughtful mood that he rode up La Cumbre toward the Quinta

The difference, not merely of degree, but of kind, which is supposed to exist in the English race from the inferior orders of savages is amusingly exemplified in the following:

Returning to his parish after his autumn holiday, a dignified country clergyman noticing a woman at her cottage door with a baby in her arms, asked:

"Has that baby been baptized?"

"Well, sir," replied the curveting mother. "I shouldn't like to say as much as that, but your man came and did as much as he could."

Five-year-old Mary, who is always anxious to be in everything that goes on, lives in a small town where the long suffering minister still endures donation parties to make up his back salary. Just before the last one she begged eagerly:

"Please, muver, can't I take something too, muver?"

"No, if father and I take something, that will be plenty."

But the child could not bear to give up the idea, so she ransacked the whole house for something suitable. Finally she appeared before her mother with a worn and faded dress of hers.

"Please, muver, can't I take this? See, it's not a speck of good for anything," she urged.

"Ah, Mrs. Flaherty, but ye look sad this mornin'!"

"Faith an' why shouldn't I look sad when me Dennis has been dropped from the force?"

"You don't say! And what fur?"

"Well, you see it was this way. There was a soign on a buildin' what read 'No trespassing, police take notice.' An' me poor Dennis took it."

Sales of the Friendly Forest

By DAVID COAR

In the last story I left off very suddenly while the band was playing, you remember, and I will tell you the reason why. My typewriter got so excited over the song about the sailor lad in blue and the soldier boy in town, I mean brown, that it began dancing to the music and of course then I couldn't write another word.

Well, anyway you remember that Billie Bunny and his friend Uncle Lucy were just leaving the Billy Goat Sentry who had stopped them in their automobile, to continue their journey of adventure. So off they started down the road and by and by they came across a big black bear with two little cubs.

"Now there's going to be more trouble," said little Billy Bunny, "but you know, kid Uncle Lucy didn't think so. You see he was always looking on the bright side of things so he called out to Mrs. Bruin, which was the lady's bear name, I believe. 'Won't you get into the Luckymobile and we'll take you to town?' and of course the little bears said yes right away, for they had never ridden in an automobile in their lives. Well, when they got into the automobile, they had forgotten to do it, started up and got into the automobile and away they went to Rabbitville, for that was the nearest town.

And pretty soon the two little bears began to sing:

"Uncle Lucy is so kind
To take us for a drive,
That we will get some honey
From out the big bee hive.

We'll put it in a little box,
To keep it clean and neat,
And then the flies won't eat it.

Nor touch it with their feet."

And after that Mrs. Bruin said: "Mr. Lucifer, withdraw. If you will stop at the next cross road I'll get out and see if I can't find the honey for you."

Lucifer withdrew. If you will stop at the next cross road I'll get out and see if I can't find the honey for you."

Well, when they came to the place, Mrs. Bruin climbed out and went into the woods. But before she left she told the two little bears not to move and not to annoy Uncle Lucy or Billy Bunny, but to be quiet until she came back. Well, I don't know exactly what happened in the woods, but pretty soon Mrs. Bruin came tearing back with the whole swarm of bees after her. Some had got under her bonnet and were stinging her ears and some had crawled inside her silk mitts and were stinging her hands, and oh, dear me! It was just dreadfully bad when Uncle Lucy said that the was the matter he told her to hurry up and get into the automobile. And then he made it go so fast that one of the bees lost his stinger because he couldn't keep up with it, and he didn't have time to take it out of Mrs. Bruin's ear. Well, wasn't it too bad? And in the next story I'll tell you how Mrs. Bruin said good-by to Billy Bunny.

His Dearest Wish.
The neighbor children were all invited to Roy's birthday party. As each child lit a candle on the cake he was to wish for something. Charley said: "I wish my mother would get to tell me I don't have two pieces of cake when I come to your party again."

Worth Knowing.
He who always receives and never gives acquires, as a matter of course, a narrow, contracted, selfish character. His soul has no expansion, no benevolent impulses, no elevation of aim. He learns to feel and think and care only for himself.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, April 6, 1878.—Rev. Erdman continues his Bible readings at the Presbyterian church.

The lamp post by the Congregational church serves a kindly purpose to the lads who spend their evenings playing "rums for keeps" in its light. Last evening as they "knuckled down" they joined in a good Sunday school hymn, paraphrasing it. "Let us play in the light, in the light."

LIBERTY DAY—APRIL SIXTH

One of the Brightest Days in American History

A savage beast is ravaging this earth. It would make human happiness a plaything in the hands of power. It would say to the mothers, "Your sons are but fodder for the guns." It would say to the sons, "Your mothers are but breeding machines for my power."

Destruction, devastation, treachery, murder are its favorite weapons. To STAY the beast, to CIRCUMVENT its devilish purpose, to PULL its poisonous fangs of corruption and destruction, UNCLE SAM UNSEATHED HIS SWORD---and will fight to the death the evil forces that are running amuck, defiling all things men hold dear.

April Sixth--hereafter to be known as "LIBERTY DAY"--is a bright day for this nation. It will FOREVER mark the day when this great nation, true to its high ideals, entered the lists against WAR-MAD AUTOCRACY--the scourge that threatened to crush under its iron heel millions of liberty, honor-loving peoples.

As business men, citizens, above all LOYAL AMERICANS, we are proud this sixth day of April--LIBERTY DAY--again to pledge our loyalty to the great cause, to make every sacrifice, render every help, financial and physical, to "WIN THE WAR".

A. A. U. MEET WILL BE HELD IN DRILL HALL

INT'L INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Chicago, April 6.—The great indoor meet of the year for this section of the country deadlocked after hours because of the most unusual crowds in the history of the A. A. U. The Central A. A. U. meet for 1918 is being held in the great drill hall at Camp Dewey, Great Lakes.

Charles Dean, president of the A. A. U., today said the hall is one of the best in the country for the purpose. Much work has been done by contractors who were engaged from the training station, which boasts experts in almost every trade. The building accommodated 16,000 and early indications were that it would be filled to capacity, mostly by sailors.

The meet, generally held in the evening, was set for the afternoon to enable city crowds to get back to Chicago.

Among the stars entered are Joe Loomis; Floyd Smart, champion of the long route hurdlers; Earl Fry, one of the fleetest in the thousand yard event; Andy Ward, sprinter; Eddie Hall, miler; Ed Kuburek, pole vaulter, and Avery Brundage, champion all round athlete. Ward, Kuburek are back now. Illinois probably will send Homan up for the sprints. Michigan will enter Johnson in the hurdles, and the Maroons will enter Ollis in the mile. John Ray, distance star, wearing the Illinois Athletic club's colors, is to appear in three events.

METHODIST BOWLERS TOOK THE ST. PAUL AGGREGATION INTO CAMPOVY ALLEYS

Methodist bowlers last night easily turned the pin tenn of the St. Paul's Lutheran church on the Y. M. C. A. alleys. The St. Paul bowlers were off color while the Methodists showed up in good form although they did not exhibit any exceptional speed. Nott of the home team stumbled the most pins throughout the evening while Otto upheld the reputation of the St. Paul Lutherans. The score follows:

MORRIS MILLER

The Bluejackets at the Peckham Bay station of the naval reserve force have organized a strong ball team and have issued a sweeping challenge that includes the Giants and the team led by Jack Barry at the Boston navy yard. Coxswain Geno Hart, who was at one time the Giants' mascot and who later played in a number of minor leagues, is a member of the team. The lineup also includes Barry Confer, who was with the Pats for a time last spring; Jack Conway, who was with the Brooklyn Federal league club; Hollingsworth, formerly with the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast baseball rank; from the Tri-State League; and Bob Noford, a pitcher from Birmingham. Hart is endeavoring to arrange an exhibition game with the Giants to be played at Peckham some Sunday early in the season.

A certain baseball scoupe sagely remarks that the Indians are in for a triple tax in the spring training camps tax their credibility. The government tax them for the war, and some of the ball teams are going to tax their patience later.

The Boston Braves have taken on another one of the World's Fair baseball players. He is Hugh Conner, left-handed pitcher. He has been acting as coach for a minor league team in Virginia, but will close his work there and report to Manager Stallings.

Manager Burrow, of the Red Sox insects that in Ruth Bush, Horner and Mayo had the strongest pitchers in the four entries. Burrow's opinion does not meet with approval in other big league cities. Chicago fans, for instance, say that the White Sox on the mound, with Cicotte, Faber, Russell and Williams working for Rowland, and the Cubs relying on Alexander, Tyler, Vaughn and Douglas, the Indians seem to be the running with Schupp, Benton, Shantz, Pratt and Barnes, while the Washingtons, carrying Walter Johnson, Arnes, Harper and Shaw, must not be overlooked. The Clevelands too are entitled to much consideration, as manager Fehl has S. Lovelace, Bagby, Morton, Groom and several others.

Though millionaire stockholders of the Chicago Cub were barred from taking the training trip from Chicago, Wm. Wrigley, the chewing gum magnate, beat the rule. He makes his winter home at Pasadena, so he just stayed there until the Cubs arrived and now he's on hand to enjoy the practice stunts.

Instead of kicking over the traces when he learned that he had been sent to the Athletics by the Red Sox Third Baseman Larry Gardner seriously reported to Connie Mack and is working diligently to help the team. Gardner hated to leave Boston, where he was a public idol, but he realized the need of the country and the rules of organized baseball. Consequently he is aiding Mack by exerting his influence over the other players and in that way he is making a new army of friends in Philadelphia. The Red Sox may regret Gardner's departure before the season ends.

Pitcher Eddie Laverne asked Manager Pat Moran to send him to Atlanta, where he would be able to play near his home town of Montezuma, Ga. Laverne has a farm at Montezuma and thinks it his duty to Uncle Sam to require that he sees that a full crop is grown on it.

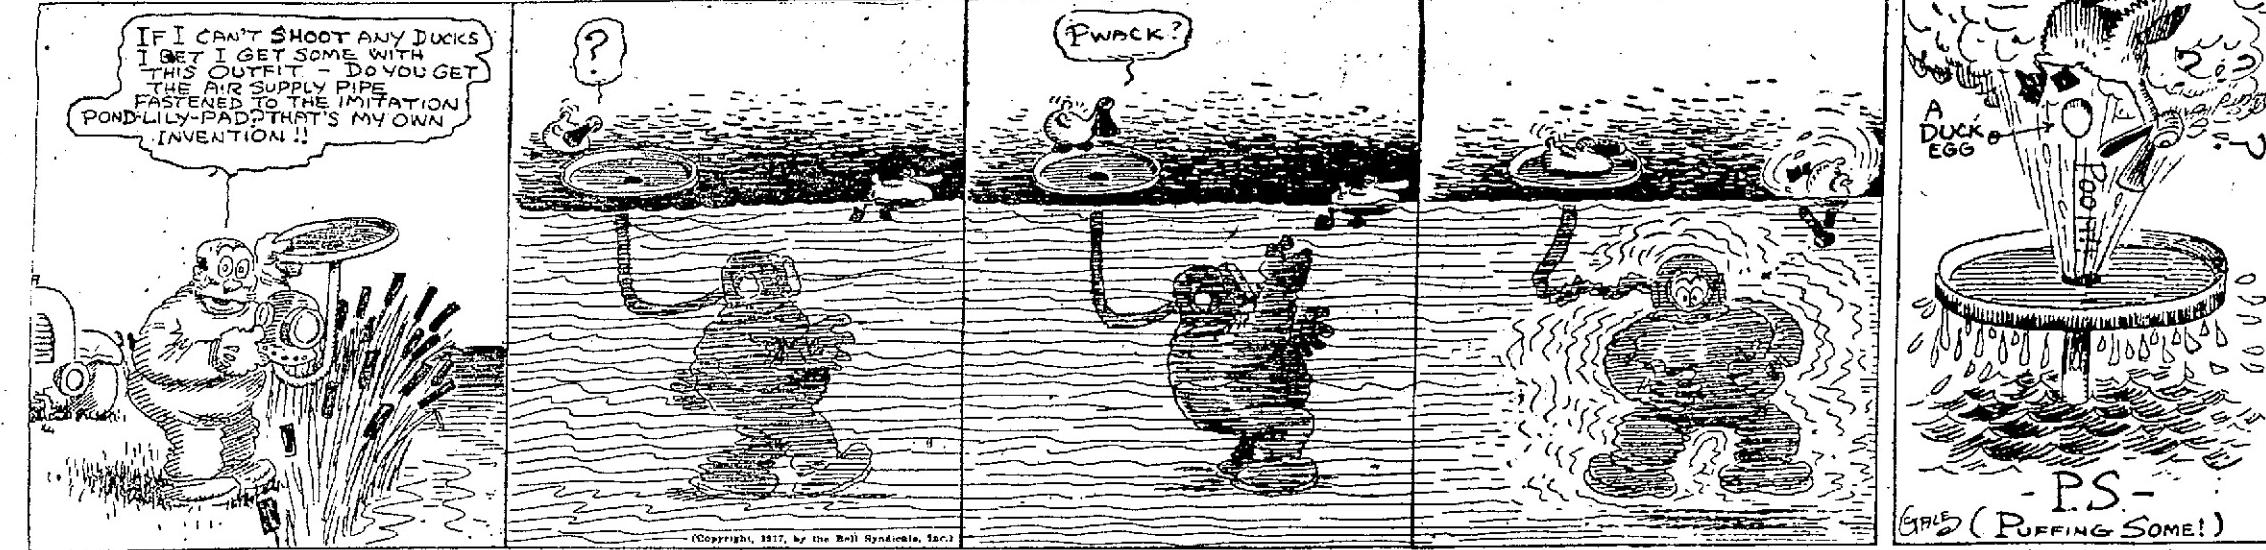

Pitchers Mulligan and Evans, who made up the "graduates" training camp with the first squad, did not linger long, both being called to Uncle Sam's colors. Uncle Sam is going to relieve many a manager of the problem of cutting down his training squad this spring.

UNCLE SAM'S FIRST YEAR OF WAR

A NEW NATIONAL ARMY DEVELOPING

On the sixth day of April, 1917, President Wilson proclaimed the existence of a state of war between the United States of America and the German empire.

That was one year ago. Twelve months have passed, and the American people cannot yet appreciate the prodigious significance of the action then taken. In twelve months America has set the war. It has been brought home in many ways. But even yet the nation is in Europe's sea of blood no more than ankle deep.

The story of the past year is a story of steadily growing understanding. Little by little the meaning of war has been impressed on the people's mind. By the selected service law, by fuel and food regulation, by government control of railroads, by the imposition of income taxes, by the calls for popular loans, the government has made clear that "business as usual" in time of war is scarcely an accurate phrase. American business has indeed stood stanchly under the strain, but it is not quite unbroken. Individual contractors have been diminished, non-essential activities have ceased, luxuries have been tabooed, the private citizen has as never before been made to realize his responsibility as a part of the republic.

It was on April 5, one day before the formal declaration of war, that Secretary Baker laid before congress an army bill prepared by the general staff and approved by the president. The project of the bill was the nationalization of the militia. Not until June 3 did the bill become a law. The machinery of the draft was once set in motion and the selection and organization of the great national army was begun. The United States thus became for the first time in its history a truly military nation.

DEMAND FOR REAL WAR MEASURES GROW

pay, and that the national obligation cannot be shirked by any individual.

U. S. ARMY NOW FACTOR IN WAR

Now a large army is "over there," and a larger army is in training "over here." The building of the military establishment has been continued though without serious dislocation of the business and industries of the nation. The army that is now in France is no mere expression of good will. It is even more than a promise of substantial help to come. Its numbers are not definitely known, but it is large enough to be already a factor in the fighting. At this critical period of the war, hundreds of thousands of Americans are headed toward Europe, and on their arrival they will be equipped to fight at once, without any further preliminary training. To General Foch, the newly named generalissimo of all the allied forces in western Europe, General Pershing has tendered the entire American military establishment to be used in the great defense against Hindenburg.

For months Americans have been fighting in the front line trenches.

The first mention of Americans actually in battle came at the time of the German counterstroke, which largely nullified Byng's brilliant victory at Cambrai. American

engineers were caught in the German surprise, and America had her first battle casualties.

Since then Americans have taken over command of the German counterstroke, which

largely nullified Byng's brilliant

victory at Cambrai. American

engineers were caught in the German surprise, and America had her first battle casualties.

With all these extraordinary measures and large additions the shipping problem remains one of the most difficult which this nation must face. In addition to the great fleet of transports which is constantly carrying soldiers to France there must be an even greater fleet to carry food and other supplies to our own soldiers, to our allies and to the neutral nations.

What has as yet been no paralyzing lack of facilities is one of the best proofs of American resourcefulness and ingenuity.

U. S. DESTROYERS HUNTING U-BOATS

Even before America's declaration of belligerency the shipping problem had become acute. With America at war the need of ships became as pressing as the need of men. The shipping board had been created in the fall of 1916, and after the declaration of war, the British admiralty and the U. S. admiralty each extended its powers to the maximum.

By October 1917 congress had authorized the expenditure of $1,924,-

000,000 for the construction and purchase of ships. The Emergency Fleet corporation, a subsidiary organization of the shipping board, has comanded all vessels of 2,500 tons and over building in the United States and Canada. The president has authorized all ships in the jurisdiction of the United States owned by any corporation or citizen of a nation at war with the United States. German ships were immediately seized. On December 3 congress sanctioned a declaration of war against Austria-Hungary and a few Austrian ships were confiscated. On December 11, 1917, the United States declared war on Germany. The American navy has brought no devastating Hunnish horde.

Americans know that all the greater allies are the most fortunate.

The American navy is playing an important part in the war, but its successes have greatly added to the confidence of the allies.

Destroyers under Admiral Sims have actively co-operated with the British in the destruction of U-boats, and have done a great deal of damage to the German submarine fleet.

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a not leave marks or scars, and the hair does not return because the roots are absolutely killed. I cannot recommend a specialist, but a good physician can give you advice on the subject. * * *

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been keeping company with a young man for several months and all of a sudden he stopped coming to see me and he did not offer any explanation. I love this boy very much and I do not like to have him quit me in this way. I wonder if some one told him something unkind about me. Do you think I should write to him and ask him what is the trouble? KITTY

Do not write to him. As long as he has not dropped you, appear to be perfectly willing that it is that way. It is never a good thing for a girl to write to a boy after he has dropped her.

CARRIE. Perhaps it will help you to know that flirting is very cheap and shows lack of refinement. It is wrong because it is not to hurt the person you flirt with and give him an undesirable impression of you.

I do not think you made a mistake in marrying. Every girl who loves the man who wants to marry her will marry him. You ought to be a help to your husband. If he thinks you are untrue to him evenings when he is working he will be very unhappy and cannot do good work. Have girl friends come in during the evening or to stay all night.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My sister twenty-two years old is bothered with hair on her face—on both cheeks and lip. She is good looking otherwise. Would you consider the electric shaver a safe method with good results? Is that system apt to leave marks or scars? Will the hair come back? And could you recommend a specialist to do the work? ANNEX TO LEARN.

It is safe to remove hair with the electric needle. The method does not enter the skin.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Common School Course in Home Nursing usually an imperfect specimen of it himself.

The girl at twelve or thirteen should have at least one full year of training in the care of the baby, in simple home nursing, first aid and domestic hygiene. This will bring her into the most complete state of fitness for marriage.

(Wellerster's "SS") It greatly distresses me that college women are so turned from marriage, and that birth rate is so alarmingly low in this class, and so few college-bred women are able to nurse their babies. Something is radically wrong with college education.

I would like to point out the influences which belittle motherhood glorifying everything else; partly to the effort of women's colleges to perfect exactly after men's colleges.

Perhaps you can start the campaign for the rational education of our daughters. Whenever two or three women are gathered together they are wont to be quoted.

I do not agree with the correspondent about the birth rate in college-bred circles. College-bred women are well represented among the best mothers in the land. When visiting a city to lecture under the auspices of an organization, I find that the women who attend are the ones who are most eager to teach their children life's greatest truths. What's wrong with the educational system, anyway? Do we rely too much upon old maids and narrow-minded bachelors in the arranging of the public school courses? Why don't the mothers and fathers of the country voice an older, better informed view?

Mother's opinion about the education of children will outweigh any theoretical conception of the school faculty. Mothers, how about it? Don't you owe something to the future happiness of your children?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

And We Stand By Our Girls

Every since the change of life, when you say there is no such thing as a woman.

ANSWER.—No, you mistake, Madame. We say there is such a thing, but that it has nothing to do with the sex of the woman or man more than the encounter at middle age. Many diseases are likely to manifest at from forty-five to fifty years of age, than at any other time. In fact, it is an axiom that the more superstitious sex has any prior claim on the diseases of middle age.

Long Incubation

Can scurvy fever be contracted in a letter? Last week I received a letter from a friend who was nursing a scarlet fever patient, and just fourteen days from the day she received the letter I came down with scurvy fever.

TODAY IS LIBERTY DAY

The Opening of the Sale For Liberty Bonds of the Third Liberty Loan

The Time For Argument Has Passed--The Time For Action Is Here

The present business of the United States is war. We are in it to the last dollar, to the last drop of blood, and we are prepared to fight it out on these lines. But whenever we can spend dollars instead of spending lives, then we shall spend dollars—billions of them. We shall furnish the Government with these dollars—if not through voluntary subscriptions to bonds, then through higher taxes. If a man hesitates over an act which will save the life of your son you do not argue with him. It is not our heritage from the ages that we should argue and equivocate when human lives are hanging in the balance. When the choice is clear and sharp between lending money to the Government and permitting one unnecessary life to be lost by our soldiers—WHEN IT IS BONDS OR BLOOD—when it is a simple financial arrangement at home or human agony on the fields of France—will any American hesitate?

Not a bit of it. The red blood of American citizenship demands justice wherever and whenever the issue arises and the duty of America was never clearer than it is today.

Delay Costs Blood-The Blood of Our Own Sons

This is not finance. It is patriotism. Let us not mince words. Let us not temporize. Let us mobilize the money of America into the war-service of our Government in the most tremendous crisis in its history. Every man in the United States, every woman and every child in this country should and will buy Government Bonds. They will add to the purchases already made with the knowledge that they are insuring their every earthly possession against devastation and conflagration. Because if that human line of the Allies stretching across France breaks and fails, America will then be the finest "Jack Pot" in the world, for the Kaiser and you and I and the rest of us independent, liberty, loving people will have backed our boys too late with our dollars.

Are We Going To Win? You Bet We Are

And you and I are going to put every ounce of help into the "winning" we possess, so as to make dead sure that victory will be One Hundred Per Cent.

Let's make it a clean up.

Let's Buy, Buy, Buy Liberty Bonds and do it now.

How and Where To Buy

Every bank sells them and the Liberty Loan Committees will take your order. Terms of payment can be made if desired. The third Liberty Loan Bonds pay Four and One-Quarter Per Cent interest.

JANESEVILLE'S ENTERPRISING SHOPS

A Little Shop That Does a Big Business

The Fuder Repair Company on North First Street Is A Real Motorcycle and Bicycle Repair Shop Worthy of the Name, Where Service is Not Merely a Word But Has A Real Genuine Meaning.

Located at 108 N. First Street, just around the corner from Winslow's Grocery, is a small repair shop, it isn't much to look at; there are no glary signs, no flashy front or plate glass windows; and if it wasn't for the fact that there is a steady stream of motorcycles and bicycles going in and out one might pass it by without a second look. But inside it looks different. In fact, it is one of the most up-to-date and the best equipped motorcycle and bicycle shop in the southern part of the state.

One can always find a good stock of the well known Harley-Davidson Motorcycles and Miami Bicycles of both the newest and latest styles, and also a large assortment of second hand ones. A good line of tires, tubes, accessories and supplies for both motorcycle and bicycle are always carried in stock here.

The rear of the place is a regular machine shop equipped with lathe, drill press, grinder, forge and brazier. Here rings, pistons and bearings are made and cylinders rebored on short notice, all work being guaranteed equal to factory work.

Here also, SIDE-CAR CHASSIS are constructed in large numbers, many of them being shipped to neighboring dealers for commercial use.

The man behind this enterprising little shop is Benjamin Fuder, a young man of most pleasing disposition and unusual personality. Mr. Fuder has lived here all his life and is known to most everyone by the common name "Ben". Mr. Fuder has had at least 10 years experience in the cycle business, and what he doesn't know about motorcycles and bicycles isn't worth knowing. He is a mechanic of unusual ability and he has built up a splendid business which not only takes in the city of Janesville but extends to all the surrounding neighboring towns.
